Foreword

As this school year draws to an end, we pause to take one last lingering glance of the events that have taken place.

We hope as you look back through this book in the years to come that you may possess an eternal record of the people and events that have made this year a memorable one.

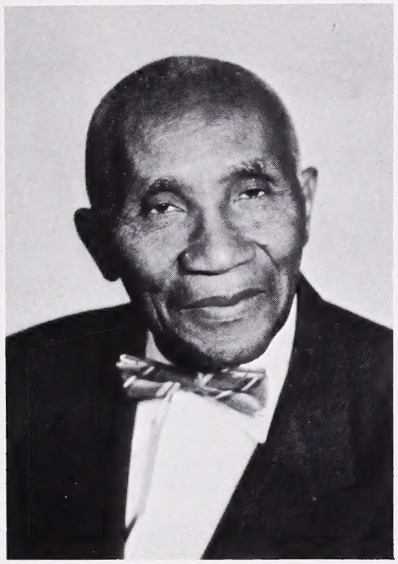
Dear Parents,

We, the Senior Class of 1960, take great pride in dedicating this yearbook to you.

For we feel that it was you who directed us with your patience, understanding, faith, courage, pride and love through our 12 years of school life. We can never repay you for what you have done for us, but it is with our sincere appreciation that we dedicate this book to you. May we ever make you proud of us.

Yours sincerely,
The Senior Class

In Memoriam



Years from now when we look back through our high school days and attempt to cite some of the people, who during these years meant the most to us, one name will come inevitably to our minds. This will be the name of Mr. John Henry St. Clare Walker. Along with the remembrance of his name will certainly come special thoughts of him and a feeling of indebtedness and gratitude that only the mention of Mr. Walker's name can bring.

There are many things for which we'll remember Mr. Walker. We shall remember Mr. Walker as a teacher of mathematics, agriculture, and history at St. Clare Walker for a number of years. We shall remember Mr. Walker as the person who has done so much to better the educational opportunities for the Negro in Middlesex County. We shall remember Mr. Walker as the person who is primarily responsible for the accreditation of St. Clare Walker high School. We, likewise, shall remember Mr. Walker as the person for whom our school was named. For these reasons and for many others do we remember Mr. Walker. But the real reason that the name of Mr. John H. St. Clare Walker will be imprinted in our memories and hearts is that his name stands for everything that is good, everything that means progress, everything that means achievements, everything that means unity, and everything that has as its ultimate goal the development of a better person, socially, morally, and educationally.

Though Mr. Walker is now deceased there is a part of him which can never die. For each September that a student enters St. Clare Walker a portion of Mr. Walker will live. For every June that a student receives his diploma from St. Clare Walker and goes out into the world to lead a meaningful and purposeful life, a portion of Mr. Walker will live. Everytime an individual of Middlesex County makes a definite contribution to his environment a portion of Mr. Walker will live, for his doctrines are scattered not only throughout Middlesex County but through the various parts of the United States. This part of Mr. Walker is an ever-burning flame which cannot be quelled by death and which will glow brightly through the years.

The debt that we owe Mr. Walker cannot be expressed. Who can put a price on the wealth of information and the great number of infallible principles that he has instilled in his students through the years? There is no price that can be expressed. But, in partial payment of this vast debt, we will as students and as citizens carry with us the heritage that Mr. Walker has left us; hence the resourcefulness, and the perseverance that were characteristics of Mr. Walker's life and we will bequeath these qualities to all those students who succeed us.

The Students of St. Clare Walker

Principal's Message

It has been a pleasure and a privilege to have worked with each member of this class. It has been a consolation to see the development each has made during his stay here.

We congratulate you on "sticking it out."

We want each of you know that we are directly concerned with your progress. In fact, your progress is our progress; your failure, our failure.

This age (the Atomic Age, the age of Missiles, and the age of Moon Satellites) is an age of greater opportunity as well as greater competition for each of you. Can you meet this challenge? I believe that no goal or ambition is too high for either of you who is willing to use the same determination and vigor with which you have worked here during the past years.

I predict a successful life for each of you.

Class History

As eighteen weary travelers approach an important milestone in their climb to the zenith of the mountain of success, and as they radiate with happiness and the anticipation of what lies ahead, they pause momentarily in reminiscent pensiveness to review the highlights of their journey.

One memorable day in September almost five years ago, forty-two insecure students of Shiloh, Syringa, Saluda, Beverly Allen, and Hamilton Holmes set out on a hard, but new and interesting journey as they amalgamated with the freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors of the St. Clare Walker High School.

That first year was greatly occupied by the class struggle to adjust to new rules, to mix with new students, and to adopt to high school life in general. Through this turmoil, however, the class still managed to attain a high scholastic average; for it was during this term that we maintained the highest honor roll membership. It was also in the eighth grade that the class was thrilled when Patricia Polson represented us in the February 22nd program and won second place.

It is commonly known that in the face of a new adventure many people "give up the ship," so it was with some members of our class. During our second year at Walker the class suffered its greatest loss of members, but this action failed to mar the determination of the remaining students; for as the class members began to join extra-curricular activities, it gained recognition through the "get-up-and-go" attitude of its members and their strong enthusiasm for the growth of the school. Another example of the results of this esprit de corps was the triumph of the class in the February 22nd program as our representative Martha Burrell, was crowned and reigned as Queen of the May Day Festivities.

Crossing this bridge successfully, leaving behind the problem of greeting the unknown, the problem of amalgamation, and the anxiety of "not belonging," the class entered its sophomore year. Under the altruistic sponsorship of Mrs. Cameron, the school librarian, Ruth Jackson became president of the Library Club and through several assembly programs and posters, instigated in the students a need for wider usage of the library.

Do you remember the thrill of having District and State honors when Pat Polson, Dorothy Robinson and Bessie Peterson brought "the bacon home" as they won recognition in the Science-Math. Conference at Thomas Hunter High and St. Paul College? And how can you forget the joy of having so many members of your class on the victorious basketball teams of this year? Remember our happiness when Kenneth Jarvis won second place in the State Livestock Judging Contest?

Evidently we did remember and can never forget, for we carried this "get-up-and-go" attitude into our Junior year. More victories? More successes? Yes. Once more, the class burst with pride. For now it could boast of another February 22nd victory, and Annelle Randall became queen and reigned over the May Day Activities. Again the class received State and District honors through Patricia and Dorothy. During this term, members became more interested in S.P.A. and the class received the honor of having a president of the Student Council in the person of Bessie Peterson, and a secretary, Patricia Polson. James Curtis became vice-president of the MGM Federation, participated in the N.F.A. Quartet and brought the class and school recognition as the Quartet won first place in the MGM Federation N.F.A. Contest. Sarah Louden, Annelle Randall, and Ruth Jackson assisted in organizing a cheering squad. This year, largely through class enthusiasm and Jean Latimore's managership, we were able to give one of the school's best proms, "The Garden of Dreams."

With these and other honors, the class ended forever its role as the Juniors of St. Clare Walker High.

Today, over four years since those forty-two insecure students entered Walker, eighteen students who have had many struggles, and many downfalls, and many achievements, are perched upon the threshold of opportunity in the world of space age travel. As we go forth to make our places in the world, it is our hope that we maintain our places in the world; it is our hope that we maintain our resourcefulness, and at all times portray the alacrity, and integrity which represent the Walker High heritage.

Bessie Peterson

Class Poem

As the flower gently unfolds in the morning's dew,
So have our lives unfurled, though we now are few.
We've journeyed over toilsome roads;
Our ultimate dream has been
That we walk among the learned
As equals, as comrades, as men.

Our obligations to Walker are many;
The debt we can ne'er repay.
We give honor and devotion
With the actions we display.
May the seed that Walker has planted
Sprout to a prolific tree
Which produces the fruits of
Kindness, honesty, and integrity.

Thus, as we depart from Walker's arms
Enriched, but yet not wise,
Let us uphold those standards, symbolic of purity alertness, and pride.
Let us steer our steps to the upward
Heights, believing what is true.
Give to the direful world we meet
Only the best that we can do.

Patricia Polson

Class Song

"Yellow Rose of Texas"

Away from St. Clare Walker
Forever we must go.
We never will forget you,
We'll always love you so.
For you, our Alma Mater,
We ever will display
Our strong and true devotion
When we are far away.

Our school days now are over,
Though mem'ries will not pass.
We hope you won't forget us;
We are your Senior Class,
In this year, 1960,
We bid you fare adieu.
May all your sons and daughters
Be always true to you.

Class Prophecy

If, when leaving St. Clare Walker High School, we could take an imaginary journey into the future, as far as 1978, we would probably find that many changes have taken place, both in the lives of the members of the Class of '60, and in school life at St. Clare Walker.

As our rocket glides into the year 1978 we find:

St. Clare Walker has moved into Group II of the V.I.A., for there are approximately four hundred students attending school there. The teaching staff has been increased to thirty members. As we are taken on a guided tour of the school, by a remote control rocket, we find Mrs. Cameron preparing to send off the Class of 1978.

Yes, there has been a great deal of success at "dear old Walker," but when the word success is mentioned, there is one more group that deserves a "pat-on-the-back"; the Class of 1960.

We would probably find:

Louise Johnson and Etta Holmes operating Beauty Salons in some town,
Croxton Ward, working as a commercial artist for the Proctor and Gamble Soap Industry,
Martha Burrell and Annelle Randall, modeling in downtown New York City,
Jean Latimore and Ruth Jackson, as successful housewives,
Patricia Polson, now very successful in the field of science;
Bessie Peterson, who has been teaching English for a number of years, is now in the midst of writing a book.
June Thurston, a lawyer in downtown Baltimore,
Cora Thurston, now a Home Economist, and teaching at a high rated high school,
Kenneth Jarvis, a member of the United States Air Force,
Maxann Thornton, a physical education teacher,
Lillian Holmes and Dorothy Robinson teaching Business Administration at St. Clare Walker,
James Curtis, now a family man and very successful in the field of architectural engineering, and De Sylvia Green, now teaching mathematics at St. Paul College.

After spending some time in the year 1978, we must return to 1960, and realization; for only in our imaginations could a class be altogether successful as the one described above. And now as we view the promised day, graduation, we hope that each will find success in his chosen field, by striving toward it, realizing that success comes only as a result of hard, but pleasant experiences.
